

TCES Home Learning offers both distance learning (across the UK) or home based (London and the Home Counties) one-to-one learning to students aged 5 to 25 who are currently without school-based SEN provision.

WHAT IS HOME LEARNING?

Home Learning provides educational support to students who are not attending a school or AP setting. Often they are unable to attend due to high anxiety.

TCES Home Learning offers support for these students on an interim basis to support their academic and personal development.

Our services:

- Face-to-face learning through one-to-one teaching for vulnerable young people in London and the Home Counties.
- Distance Learning, directed and supported by our highly skilled teaching staff and therapists.

Our bespoke learning programmes are suited to each young person's specific needs and often include therapeutic input. Timetables are between 10-20 hours a week plus therapy, for a minimum of six weeks.

We can provide support for extended periods of time and work to transition young people into education settings. Students under Home Learning need to be registered with their previous school/college or are on a Local Authority virtual school roll.

WHO IS IT FOR?

- Home Learning supports young people aged 5 to 25 not currently accessing education, employment, or training.
- Students with SEN and complex needs which are a barrier to learning in a mainstream school or alternative provision.
- Neurodiverse students typically with SEMH, ASC and associated conditions, including anxiety and mental health issues.
- Most students have an Education, Health and Care Plan.

THE HOME LEARNING APPROACH

We offer a bespoke programme that is differentiated to meet the needs and abilities of the student that we are working with.

The curriculum offer is a collaborative process, devised in conjunction with parents/ carers, the young person and our specialist team. This will be dynamic and may change over time according to positive engagement levels and increasing confidence.

Home Learning is flexible and creative in finding interim solutions for young people, supported with clinical, behaviour and curriculum input from our TCES Service Support Team.

AIMS AND OUTCOMES

- Equip all young people with the social, emotional, behavioural and academic skills required to flourish in a school or college environment. School/college readiness is our priority.
- Prepare young people for academic or vocational courses by supporting them to achieve the necessary accreditations, ensuring there are no gaps in learning as they transition from one educational placement to the next.
- Maximise every student's success in their future placement, using our experience of designing bespoke internal and external transition programmes and collaborating with other schools and college.
